IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

Judge Herron, Father of Mrs. Taft, White House Guest.

CHARLEY TAFT SEES CIRCUS

Engagement of Miss Isabel Gregory to Mr. J. S. Flannery, Both of This City. Announced—Mrs. Norman Williams Entertains for Mrs. MacVeagh—Prince de Croix Here.

Judge Herron, of Cincinnati, the venerable father of the first lady of the land, arrived at the White House yesterday morning for a week's visit. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Lewis Moore, of Cincinnati, who was a guest at the White House during and after the inauguration, and made many friends here at that time.

President and Mrs. Taft entertained at dinner last evening in the White House. Their guests were Senator and Mrs. Burrows, Senator and Mrs. Clarence Clark, Senator and Mrs. Tillman, Senator and Mrs. Clapp, Senator and Mrs. Burnham, Senator and Mrs. Carter, Senator and Mrs. Fletcher, Representative and Mrs. George E. Foss, Representative and Mrs. Joseph E. Graft, Representative and Mrs. George W. Taylor, Representative and Mrs. Henry S. Pottell, Representative and Mrs. Francis W. Cushman, Representative and Mrs. James C. Needham, Representative and Mrs. John W. Weeks, Mrs. Lewis Moore, sister of Mrs. Taft, and Capt. Graham L. Johnson.

Master Charley Taft has joined his parents in the White House, because of a quarantine placed upon his school in Watertown, Conn., for measles. He took a party of his boy friends in Washington to the circus yesterday and ate peanuts and enjoyed the clown just the same as though he did not live in the White House.

The engagement is announced of Miss Isabel Gregory to Mr. J. S. Flannery, both of this city. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Nora Iselin was married to the Count Ferdinand Collared-Mannsfeld yesterday at 4 o'clock at the home of her uncle, Columbus Iselin, at No. 3 West Fifty-second street, New York City.

The elaborate ceremony which had been planned to take place at the home of the bride's father, Oliver Iselin, at New Rochelle, had been modified into a quieter town wedding on account of the bad health of the bride's father.

At the last moment C. Oliver Iselin found himself well enough to come into town and accompany his daughter from the St. Regis Hotel, where she has been staying for several days, to her uncle's home. He was well enough also to give the bride away.

An impromptu altar, was built in the reception room of the Iselin home, with apple blossoms and other spring flowers. Ten little flower girls attended the bride to the altar. The ceremony was performed by Father Laville, rector of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, assisted by Father Byrne.

A great crowd of dressmakers and curious persons gathered about the house before and during the ceremony, but there was no open disorder. About fifty guests attended the wedding. The young couple claimed his bride under a huge bell of apple blossoms in the great dining-room, which was converted into a bower of pink roses.

Miss Iselin's gown was of white satin and train, and had a white chiffon overdress. The bodice was trimmed with rare old lace, handed down from past generations of the women of her family. The sleeves were long and tight fitting. The veil and lace fitting were worn by her mother when she was married.

The young bride wore her favorite flower, the orchid, with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley.

Her going-away frock is a stunning creation of dark blue, with a long coat containing two dozen buttons. The count and his bride, after the reception, started for Hot Springs, Va., where they will remain until ready to sail for Europe on May 20.

The Attorney General and Mrs. Wickesham and Lady Haddrell, the former's sister, returned to Washington yesterday from a week-end visit in Richmond as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Anderson.

Mrs. MacVeagh, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, was the guest for whom Mrs. Norman Williams entertained at a large and smart tea yesterday afternoon. The guests were from among the Cabinet, diplomatic, official and resident society, and numbered several hundred. Mrs. Williams was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Merritt, wife of Gen. Merritt.

Mrs. Sheridan, widow of Gen. Phil Sheridan, and Miss Gwynn poured tea. Mrs. Williams wore a superb gown of white lace over white satin, with pearls.

Prince Henri de Croix, of France, who is well known in this country, has arrived in Washington and will spend the month of May here.

Prince Moine Kahlbat, of Persia, who has been a guest of the Persian Minister, Gen. Mortezia, Khan, and later of Mirza Ali Kuli, Khan, at the Decatur, left Washington Sunday for New York, and will sail in a few days for Persia. The prince was considerably entertained during his Washington stay and made many friends here.

Mrs. James Harriman has been in New York for a week, having been called over there for the funeral of her son, Mr. James Harriman, which took place there on Friday. Mr. Harriman died in Paris a fortnight ago.

Miss Harriet Wadsworth, daughter of former Representative James W. Wadsworth, of New York, entertained a party at the circus last evening and at supper afterward at Rauscher's. After the supper the party danced, a few additional guests joining them.

Mrs. McLean was one of the chaperons of the party and among the guests were Miss Oliver and Miss Durand.

It is evident that Mrs. Nicholas Longworth expects to spend most of the summer in Ohio and that she intends to do considerable motoring over the State, as she has applied for and been granted license to run a car.

Former United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, who have been the guests of Mrs. John Phillips and her son, the Third Assistant Secretary of State, have returned to their home in New York.

Mrs. George M. Pullman, who has spent the winter in her apartment at the Arlington, has returned to her Chicago home for a spring visit. She will later open her summer home at Elberon, N. J. Mrs. Pullman's mansion, now in the

The regular monthly meeting of Stone-wall Jackson Chapter, U. D. C., was held at the Confederate home, 1223 Vermont avenue, last evening. Mrs. Magnus S. Thompson, president, presided. ## ASSOCIATES HONOR

MICHAEL I. WELLER

Present Chest of Silver to Inauguration Chairman.

TWICE AT POST OF HONOR

On Two Inaugurations Mr. Weller Has Headed the Public Comfort Body, Which Faced a Gigantic Task This Year Because of the Bad Weather—Work Is Explained.

A felicitous aftermath of the storm-bound inauguration of unhappy memory was seen in the red room of the New Willard last night, when Michael I. Weller was presented with a chest of silver as a token of the esteem of his associates on the public comfort committee.

Commitment to the number of fifty gathered to do honor to their chief, and the programme was carried out effectively, culminating in a "refreshment booth," which was disclosed to view at a propitious moment.

The chest of silver was in recognition of Mr. Weller's services as chairman of the committee, which position he has now filled at two inaugural ceremonies with great ability. According to the views expressed by his fellow-workers last night, he will have difficulty in escaping recognition when the next quadrennial jubilation rolls along.

The presentation was a brief ceremony, with Henry Clay Simpson, secretary of the committee, spokesman for the associates. He told of their esteem of Mr. Weller as a public-spirited citizen and as an unflinching worker in the cause of "public comfort," both from the point of view of the Washingtonian and that of the stranger within our gates.

Explains Task of Committee.

In expressing his appreciation, Mr. Weller made known his philosophy of the public comfort committee and the proper discharge of the duties which devolved upon it.

"The public comfort committee is not like others. It does not appeal to the public with a flourish of trumpets. It is given a large slice of the hardest of hard work, and to accomplish its task properly means that it must guard the interests of the visitors and protect the fair name of Washington from the slanders which are frequently cast upon it at inauguration time.

"The civic pride of individual citizens is a great asset in our work. We must take care of those who come from far-off States and make them feel at home. We must be hospitable, and at the same time be businesslike. The task imposed upon us is one of adjusting diverse interests. In our work of placing guests we must be scrupulous about treating all local interests alike. There must be no favors bestowed.

Weather a Severe Test.

"The frightful weather conditions which we endured at the recent inauguration brought the arduous nature of our work into sharp relief. It was then our system was put to its severest test, and although all plans had to be utterly cast aside, we proved equal to the event.

"It was necessary to protect the reputation of our business men. On one instance it was deemed proper to exonerate visitors from blame for a certain incident and condemn our own citizens. The general citizenship is determined that there shall be no extortion."

Mr. Weller expressed his heartfelt appreciation of the gift of his committee-men. He deprecated all talk of making him chairman a third time, but expressed a desire to be a "private in the ranks" at the next event. He was the recipient of many congratulations upon the successful execution of the work devolving upon the public comfort committee.

Funeral of John J. Sheehan.

Funeral services for John J. Sheehan took place at the Church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday morning. Rev. Father Connelly officiated at the solemn high requiem mass, with Rev. J. D. Marr, the pastor, as deacon and Rev. Father Bevens, subdeacon. Music for the mass was sung by the male choir of the church with H. W. Howard as director. Pallbearers were P. J. Haligan, William J. McGinnis, J. J. McCarthy, Edward Cogland, C. A. Shea, and P. Griswold Lorillard, both of New York City.
